Jap.1_HO_Session.1_00_Pre.1_A

Preliminary Lesson

1. Japanese sound system

- 1.1. Japanese sound can be divided into units of sounds, and each unit must have one of the five vowels (あ(a), い(i), う(u), え(e), お(o)) at its end (with an exception of ん(n)).
- 1.2. A consonant cannot exist alone by itself as a unit of sound.

2. Classroom Instructions & Greetings

- 2.1. ましょう (masho) at the end of the sentences means “Let’s …”.
- 2.2. おはよう (ohayo) and ありがとう (arigato) are not polit expressions, and you can use them only among friends or to the people you know very well.
- 2.3. With ございます(gozaimasu) at the end of the sentences, you should use おはようございます (ohayo gozai masu) and ありがとうございます (arigato gozai masu) as polit expressions.
- 2.4. どういたしまして(do itashi mashite) is uniquely used as a reply to ありがとうございます (arigato gozai masu).

3. Numbers

- 3.1. You need to be careful with the numbers 0 (zero), 4 (four), 7 (seven), and 9 (nine), as you have two options. Both the two options are equally used.

Hiragana

What to understand

1. We have a total of 46 Hiragana characters in the Hiragana Table.

2. Each Hiragana character has one unique way of reading, that is one unique sound.

3. The exception is for the two following characters:「お」and「を」. We read both as [o]. The sound [wo] does not exist in Japanese.

Sentence Pattern [L1.02]

…… san wa …… desu.

2. When someone' name (first name, family name, or both first and family name) is used together with "san", Sentence Pattern "…… san wa …… desu" is used to describe:

[a] that person's home country/ nationality;

[b] that person's profession.

Miller san wa kaisha in desu.

profession

さん san Mr, Ms, Mrs, Miss
アメリカ Amerika America
じん jin people

かいしゃ いん kaisha in company employee

- 2.1. さん (san) means Mr, Ms, Mrs, Miss etc., and it is placed always after the name of other people.

- 2.2. さん (san) must be always used, whenever you talk about other people. Some Japanese people might feel very uncomfortable to be called just by the name without さん (san).

- 2.3. On the other hand, さん (san) must never be used after your own name. Sentences such as "Watashi wa Takayoshi san desu." is a mistake.

Handout 02 - Page 38

Sentence Pattern [L1.03]

…… wa …… ja ari masen.

3. Sentence Pattern "….. wa …… ja ari masen" is the negative sentence. S7 means that "I am not a student." and S9 means that "Mr Miller is not an American."

Ｓ６．　わたし は がくせい です。
Watashi wa gakusei desu.

Sentence Pattern [L1.04]

…… wa …... desu ka ? + Hai / Iie

4. Sentence Pattern "….. wa …... desu ka" is the question sentence, created by adding "ka" at the very end of the affirmative sentence. Question sentences (= interrogative sentences) in Japanese always have "ka" at the end (with very few exceptional cases).

Q10. Miller さん は アメリカ じん です か。 Miller san wa Amerika jin desu ka ?

A10. はい、 アメリカ じん です。
*Hai, Amerika jin desu.

さん san Mr, Ms, Mrs, Miss
アメリカ Amerika America
じん jin people

はい hai yes

- 4.1. The affirmative answer sentence must begin with はい (hai), meaning "yes".

- 4.2. The element used in front of ですか (desu ka) in the question sentence, must be repeated at the end of the affirmative answer, as アメリカ じん (Amerika jin) in Q10 and A10.

Sentence Pattern [L1.04]

…… wa …... desu ka ? + Hai / Iie

- 4.3. The negative answer sentence must begin with いいえ (iie), meaning "no".

- 4.4. The element used in front of ですか (desu ka) in the question sentence, (アメリカ じん (Amerika jin) in Q11) is also repeated at the end of the answer sentence (as in A1), but together with じゃ ありません (ja ari masen).

Q11. Miller さん は にほん じん です か。 Miller san wa Nihon jin desu ka ?

A11. いいえ、 にほん じん じゃ ありません。 *Iie, Nihon jin ja ari masen.

さん san Mr, Ms, Mrs, Miss
にほん Nihon America
じん jin people

いいえ iie no

Q12. Miller さん は にほん じん です か。 Miller san wa Nihon jin desu ka ?

A12. いいえ、 アメリカ じん です。
*Iie, Amerika jin desu.

- 4.5. In the actual communication situations, A12 is more frequently used than A11, giving the information what the other people probably want the most.
